CRAFTSMAN BUNGALOW

1920

This Prairie style Craftsman sits atop a high, four-step foundation, but otherwise reflects the typically low profile of this design. The triple tandem side-facing gables provide a rhythmic touch. The front porch overhang and roofline is formed by the front-facing slope of one of these gables, however, a purely ornamental front-facing gable sits atop the porch roof. Heavy dual column porch supports emphasize the solid Craftsman design. The river rock foundation, porch pedestals and chimney contribute to the rustic look of this structure. The house is clad in medium clapboard siding. The front windows are two triple windows comprised of a picture window flanked by a pair of narrower single pane windows. The front door has six lights, three-over-three located in its upper half.

The original owners were Reverend Samuel G. and Bina Buckner. Reverend Buckner was pastor at the First Christian Church.
